

MacARTHUR COMPLETES 3,500-MILE HOP AND LANDS AT HONOLULU ON TIME; A TUMULTUOUS FAREWELL IN JAPAN

Five-Star General's Plane Sets Wheels Down at Hickam Field at 12:28 A. M. — Confers With Dulles As Planes Pass in The Night Over the Pacific.

By Frank Conniff
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
HONOLULU, Apr. 16 — (INS) —
Gen. Douglas MacArthur completed the 3,500-mile Tokyo-to-Honolulu leg of his homeward flight precisely on schedule today after receiving a tumultuous farewell ovation in Japan.

The five-star general's plane set
its wheels down at Honolulu's Hickam Field at 12:28 a. m. Hawaii time (5:28 a. m. EST) to complete the overwater nonstop flight from Tokyo in 12 hours and six minutes.

In midflight MacArthur held a dramatic radio conference with Ambassador John Foster Dulles as their planes passed in the night
over the Pacific. Dulles, winging his way to Japan, plans to draw up a peace treaty — groundwork for which was laid by General Mac-Arthur.

MacArthur touched foot on American soil at 12:34 a. m. six minutes
after the plane landed.

He wore the happy smile of a man returning to his native land
after a long absence.

MacArthur last set foot on American soil in Hawaii in 1944 when he held a secret wartime conference with the late President Roosevelt.

MacArthur descended the plane's ramp in the glare of floodlights as movie cameras ground out films of the historic occasion. MacArthur had a bounce to his step like a young soldier.

As the strains of "Aloha Oe"— Hawaii's traditional song of greeting and farewell—filled the warm Polynesian morning air Mrs. Mac-Arthur followed her distinguished husband down the ramp.

Their 13-year-old son Arthur blinked under the powerful battery of lights and appeared baffled at his first sight of American soil. The boy trailed his parents into waiting automobiles.

In contrast to the quarter-million persons who saw MacArthur off in Tokyo there were only a handful of greeters at Hickam — a restricted military area.

The small group including Hawaii's top military and civilian officials pressed against a retaining fence as the plane came to a graceful landing.

A brief round of applause greeted the General as he and his wife made their way to limousines for the trip to the home of Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Pacific Fleet commander, where they will stay during their Honolulu visit.

THE WAR

By Lee Ferrero

I. N. S. War Correspondent
TOKYO, Apr. 16 — (INS) — United Nations armored columns thrust forward on the Korean front today through a smoke haze thrown up by Communist troops apparently to cover a general but slow Red withdrawal.

The enemy was apparently setting up new defense positions in the Hwachon reservoir area on the central front where an American tanked task force captured the town of Yanggu without opposition. Yanggu lies at the eastern tip of the 15-mile long reservoir seven miles north of the 38th Parallel.

To the west Allied troops ran into heavy artillery, mortar and small arms fire as they fought toward Hwachon, key reservoir city on the Pukhan river near the flood gates of the huge Pukhan Dam. The flood gates were opened by Communist troops last week in a futile attempt to disrupt the Allied offensive.

ASKS WHY AMERICANS "HEDGE" ON LOYALTY

"Not Political Question, But Very Essence of Our Way of Life"

SAYS SEN. PECHAN

The Pennsylvania legislature has before it one of the most controversial measures it has ever been forced to consider — a bill requiring "loyalty
oaths" as a condition of employment for school, college and university teachers and most public officials. Is this bill good or bad? International News Service asked its sponsor, Republican Sen. Albert R. Pe-chan of Ford City, to tell why
he introduced the measure.
INS also asked Richardson Dil-worth, former Democratic Gubernatorial nominee, to give his views in opposition to the loyalty oath bill.

Ford City, Pa., April 16 — (INS) — Pennsylvania is the state in which freedom and the Republican form of government were born. It is the unaccounted millions who cry out for the free way of life.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

San Francisco will greet General
MacArthur Wednesday on his return to the United States for the first time in fourteen years. Thursday, at 12:30 p. m., he will address a joint meeting of Congress.

The political debate over the President's removal of General MacArthur was punctuated by an unusual development. The enthusiasm with which the Republicans have backed the General as the standard-bearer of their foreign policy led some Democrats to feel that if General Eisenhower decided to run in 1952 it would be as a Democrat, and not as a Republican.
The head of the North Atlantic armed forces considers Europe's military needs more important than General MacArthur and some Republicans seem to do.

New limited gains were made by United Nations troops in Korea as the Communists suffered heavy casualties in their slow withdrawal.
Smoke from burning towns combined with fog to hide ground targets from planes, which struck the area heavily.

North Korea's Foreign Minister
protested to the United Nations against "inhumanitarian acts" by the allied troops, called for the withdrawal of outside armed forces and "settlement of the Korean problem peacefully."

MacARTHUR IDOLIZED IN THE PHILIPPINES

"Will Do Nothing To Break
Unity of American People"
Says The Rev. Galang

YOUNG ADULTS' GUEST

"MacArthur will do nothing to break the unity of the American people. It is needed too much now."
This was the opinion expressed Saturday evening by the Rev. Fidel Galang, pastor of Tarlac Methodist Church, Tarlac, Philippine Islands.

The Rev. Mr. Galang spoke at the bi-monthly meeting of Bucks County
Young Adults, held in Bristol Methodist Church.

"MacArthur is loved by the people in the Philippines," he continued.
"I have baptized many babies in my church with the name of Douglas MacArthur. The people are proud to name their babies after him. MacArthur is a symbol in the Philippines. Illiterate people who cannot read or write have symbols to express their ideas. The name MacArthur to my people is a symbol of all the forces in Asia against Communism. A great vacuum has been created by his removal, and

WILLOW GROVE H. S. STUDENT KILLED, CROYDON MAN IS CRITICALLY INJURED, 2 OTHERS HURT IN WEEK-END CRASHES

Robert Hampton, 16, Meets Death When Car Crashes
Into Tree — Passenger, Edward J. Millard, Jr., 15,
Also Hurt — William M. Moser, 21, of Croydon
Sustains Fractures of Both Legs and Other Injuries
at Atco, N. J.

A junior high school student of Willow Grove who plays football with Upper Moreland junior high school, was killed, a Hatboro youth and a Philadelphia were injured, and a Croydon man is in a critical condition in a Camden (N. J.) hospital as the result of automobile accidents during the week-end.

The dead:

Robert Hampton, 16, 620 Sampson ave., Willow Grove.

Injured:

William M. Moser, 21, of 416 Neshaminy Road, Croydon.

Edward J. Millard, Jr., 15, Hatboro.

Charles Clemens, 25, Philadelphia.

State Police Trooper Carl Sauer,
of the Doylestown barracks, said the Hampton sedan was rounding a

it swept from the highway and crashed into a tree on Easton Pike near Doylestown.

A companion of the dead boy, Edward J. Millard, Jr., 15, of 406 Preston Lane, Hatboro, suffered concussion, a dislocated right hip and numerous lacerations and abrasions.

He was reported in serious condition at the Abington Memorial Hospital. Police said they were not able to learn immediately who was driving the car. Millard was not recovered sufficiently late yesterday afternoon for questioning.

The Moser accident occurred at Atco yesterday morning shortly before four o'clock. Moser sustained compound fractures of both legs,
head and face injuries. He is conscious and it is thought that he is free of internal injuries.

Moser was critically injured when a car in which he was riding crashed into a tree along the White Horse
Pike in Atco, N. J.

The driver, Charles Clemens, 25,
of Jackson street, near Princeton avenue, Phila., was treated at the same hospital for lacerations of the chin and right knee and contusions of the chest. Police said the two men were headed for Atlantic City,

EXPENSIVE POLITICS

So expensive has political campaigning become that a man of limited means can no longer accept nomination and remain independent of those seeking to contribute to his campaign fund in return for possible favors.

Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa says a nominee who lacks extensive private means must seek "some source of heavy contribution." This makes it difficult for an elected official to exercise independent judgment in actions affecting the interests of the contributor.

Both House and Senate have committees inquiring into campaign expenditures during the recent congressional elections. The House wants to know how much was spent in electing its 435 members. The Senate would like to determine the total for the 33 Senate races last fall.

It is asserted that in all but a few cases the statutory limits were exceeded. A candidate for a seat in the House is limited to expenditures of $5,000 in a campaign, and a senatorial candidate to $25,000 as a maximum.

Both totals are completely unrealistic in this era of highly competitive campaigning. As unrealistic limitations always encourage evasions, the question is whether ceilings should not be lifted to a more practicable level.

PRODUCTION RECORD

It is encouraging to read that the current national defense program is a full six months ahead of rearmament for World War II. Experience gained in the preparedness period of a decade ago has made possible the elimination of many bottlenecks.

Progress is being made largely because the government is willing to accept recommendations of industrial advisory committees. Some consideration has been given to those who have production experience and technical know-how. Rulings have been made which permit industry to maintain adequate stocks of material to keep both civilian production and rearmament moving.

Existing facilities are used in a manner to accommodate both civilian and war production. Otherwise it would have been necessary to order completely new equipment in many cases to fill preparedness orders.

Credit for success of this logical dual arrangement is given by most observers to C. E. Wilson, industrial mobilizer. His task has not been easy, but he has hewed to the line.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid—or vice versa—of their party.

At the present price of haircuts, the job should be put on a contract basis. Man with just a fringe around his neck should get by cheaper.

Those who have been wondering how soon the 154,000,000 Americans will be on the government payroll are given a clue in the revelation that a new federal employee is hired every 43 seconds.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Nov. 20, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

NEWPORTVILLE—It is reported that a new Methodist Church will be erected at Hulmeville. This will be inconvenient for people of this town who have no conveyance of their own, but perhaps a trolley line through this place will connect with the Newtown trolley at some future date.

TULLYTOWN—Supplies have been received for the new county bridge to be erected in place of the old one at the mill pond dam on the road leading to the Manor. The bridge will have iron girders, iron hand railing and three-inch yellow pine flooring. Supplies are due for the new bridge to be erected in place of the old red bridge over Scott's creek on Manor road. This bridge will have iron girders, iron hand-railing and concrete flooring.

John Steinhager has purchased the baking business formerly conducted by his brother, Caspar Steinhager, at the corner of Bath and Otter streets, and now has complete charge thereof.

Yesterday afternoon fire destroyed the large fruit house and stable on the Hellings premises, near Edgely. The two buildings were of stone. Only the walls were left standing. The origin of the fire is supposed to be incendiary.

E. T. Steel & Company have purchased from the Bristol Improvement Company the Keystone Mill building, on Canal street, which will be used in conjunction with the proposed new building which will be erected upon the site now occupied by the "stone row," on Lafayette street. The new building will be a two-story brick, 100x115 feet.

Among the 553 students at the West Chester State Normal School are the following from Bucks County: Sarah Maule, William S. Silbert, Bristol; Mabel E. Dresser, Ella R. Thompson, Newtown; Gertrude T. Wright, Tullytown; Zenaide M. Vandegrift, Bridgewater; Amanda McElroy, Andalusia; Olive A. Harrison, Hulmeville; Emily I. Haines, Lillian Stackhouse, Yardley; Theresa E. Farrell, Roelofs; Edna Hogeland, Gertrude Yerkes, Ada Q. Boileau, Southampton; Jessie R. Walton, Taylorsville; Roberta N. Tanner, Edgewood.

Mrs. Anna M. Brown, aged 74 years, died at her home on the Bristol pike at Edgely on Saturday. A short funeral service was held at the burying ground when the remains were placed in a family vault at the Ronaldson cemetery, 9th and Fitzwater streets, Philadelphia. The deceased was the widow of the late Moses Brown, who died at the homestead near Bristol twenty-five years ago. Since her husband's death Mrs. Brown has lived practically alone, at her home next to the Hellings property on the river bank at Edgely. It is roughly estimated that the estate will be valued at about $40,000. By the terms of her will Dr. E. J. Groom and Walter F. Leedom, of Bristol, are each bequeathed $1,000. They are also named as executors of the estate. The deceased is survived by several brothers and sisters but they do not share in the estate, which after being converted into cash, is to be divided, with the exception of the minor legacies, between the Old Ladies' Home at Wissinoming and the Old Gentlemen's Home at 37th and Baring streets, Philadelphia.

Two Bristol young men, who reside on Swain street, John E. Appleton and David Lyndall, both of whom are painters in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, had a miraculous escape from death at Germantown Junction yesterday afternoon. While painting the side of one of the bridges which span the Reading tracks at that point, one of the hooks which held the scaffold upon which they were working broke just after a train had passed under them and the young men fell to the tracks below. Appleton's ankle was badly sprained. He was brought home as quickly as possible and medical aid summoned, but all of Tuesday night he suffered excruciating pain. Lyndall was apparently uninjured and assisted in bringing Appleton home, but when the excitement subsided he collapsed. A medical examination disclosed painful bruises on the feet and knees. Two other young men, Hiram Vanzant and John M. Dansbury, of Trenton, who were also on the scaffold when the accident occurred, were badly injured, the former having his arm fractured in three places.

Steel Official To Address Meeting

company who was the speaker at a recent meeting of the association, will introduce Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moore has been associated with United States Steel since 1919, when he secured employment as a machinist at the Gary mills of American Sheet and Tin Plate Company. In 1929 he became a foreman of the machine shop at the Gary mills and three years later was transferred to Pittsburgh, Pa., on special work in connection with the mechanization of tinning practices. In 1922, he became acting manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate's Roll and Machine Works of Canton, O., and the following year was appointed assistant manager of that company's Shenango Works at New Castle, Pa. He returned to the Gary Tin Mill in 1926 as assistant manager in charge of construction and operation of the Corporation's first wide four-high hot and cold strip mill.

Thirteen years after he began his industrial career, Mr. Moore became assistant to the vice-president of the Illinois Steel Company. When, in 1935, the plants of this concern became a part of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, Moore was appointed general Superintendent of its South Works in Chicago. He became general superintendent of Gary Steel Works, the largest steel mill in the world, three years later and, in December of 1940, was appointed to his present position of vice-president of industrial relations with offices in Pittsburgh.

Beyond his sphere of business, Moore is an active member of many community and professional organizations. Among them are the Pennsylvania Society, the Indiana Historical Society, and the Pittsburgh Personnel Association. He is a member of the Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, the American Iron and Steel Institute, the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers and the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council.

A collector of unusual objects of all varieties, Mr. Moore has become a connoisseur of such varied items as books of limited and first editions, private press and association items; early American glass; Oriental rugs; bone china; cloisonne; paintings; period furniture and bric-a-brac of all styles and periods.

As a part of the program at the meeting of the Bucks County Borough Association a five-minute film will be shown to permit the guests of the Morrisville Council to witness scenes from the ground breaking ceremony at Fairless Works, which was held on March 1. George Hicks, nationally known news commentator and announcer, on U. S. Steel's radio program "Theatre Guild on the Air," does the commentary for the film. A large relief map showing the various facilities at the Fairless Works will be arranged as a background for the speakers table, and other exhibits will be displayed.

MacArthur Completes 3,500-Mile Hop

tators had of MacArthur at the field came as he stood in the doorway of the plane, his left hand on his hip and his right hand on a bulkhead as he looked at the crowd.

MacArthur wore his famed gold-braid campaign cap, a short "Eisenhower-type" olive drab jacket and trousers and a light khaki shirt. Mrs. MacArthur was clad in a purple wool suit with matching turban. Arthur, dwarfed by the assemblage of adults, was hatless.

The entire party seemed fresh despite the long hop from Tokyo. MacArthur's pilot, Lt. Col. Anthony Story, had to push his big plane to its top speed all the way to fill the tight schedule. The plane hit 400 miles per hour with the aid of 40 to 50 knot tailwinds in the early part of the flight.

Newsmen and photographers were denied access to the airfield itself by military authorities as MacArthur landed.

The only apparent unusual occurrence in the flight was the radio conference between MacArthur and Dulles.

Dulles, Republican foreign policy advisor who is framing a peace treaty for Japan, assured General MacArthur that his mission will adhere to the treaty policy to which they have both agreed.

General MacArthur urged Dulles to continue to work toward a "completely fair and just treaty at the earliest possible moment no matter what obstacles arise."

He assured Dulles he could count on him "for any help and assistance" the General could render.

The Constellation "Bataan" with the five-star General, his wife, 13-year-old son Arthur, and eight others aboard, passed over Midway, the international dateline at 1,125 miles from Honolulu, at 8 p. m. (1 a. m. EST Monday).

Dulles' plane, also a Constellation, landed in Tokyo before MacArthur's "Bataan" reached Hawaii. The conference was held as the two planes passed over the Pacific.

enemy "burning activities" threw up a smoke screen over the western front Sunday afternoon. Front dispatches said the Red troops were using dried rice brush and mudge pots to send white smoke billowing up to heights of 8,500 feet.

In many cases, Allied pilots were unable to determine results of their bombing strikes because of the haze.

Despite this hampering overcast Far East Air Force planes including B-29 Superforts from Okinawa flew about 825 sorties Sunday.

Russian-type MIG-15 jets made their first appearance over Korea in three days Sunday. Four enemy planes attacked a four-plane flight of American shooting stars near the northwest coast but no damage was reported on either side.

Miss Edna M. Pierson Wed To Army Corporal

The church platform was decorated with spring flowers. The Rev. Lester E. Paul, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. The bride entered the edifice, escorted by her father. The organist was Mrs. Fred Wimmersberger, Sr., who played a prelude of organ music, the wedding marches, and accompanied the vocalist, Miss Ruth Matlocks, who favored with "Because," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Dorothy E. Ream, Cornwells Heights, and the bridesmaid was Miss Dolores M. Smock, Newportville. The flower girl was Gertrude Pierson, Bristol, a niece of the bride.

Dictatorship Marches On

ize schools. Both used their purported opposition to Communism as a beguiling and whippingboy—but both were able, upon occasion, to work hand in glove with the Communists up to the time when the Communists turned upon them.

In politics, both men broke sharply away from the old-line party elements, splitting their own and the opposing factions into fragments, and then ruling the wreckage with patronage and intimidation. Both were essentially believers in one-party states, in which the sole duty of the one remaining political party was to translate the policies of the single individual at the top of the state.

The parallel goes still further.

The great sham battle on the domestic front by which both men undertook to wean the public away from the principles of representative government and from prior leaders was the battle between the executive and the legislative branches of government. Hitler successfully blamed all difficulties on the German Reichstag, and successfully claimed credit himself for all successes. The time came when he could with impunity liquidate the Reichstag, and take over into his own hands all legislative power.

Again, the two key steps in the German military dictatorship were, first, elimination from the political scene of the one great war hero who was not subservient to the Hitler program—Hindenburg; and the imposition upon the German population of an iron-clad form of draft and universal military service, over both men and resources.

By January of 1933, Hitler had undermined the confidence of the German people in the man around whom the Republic had revolved, had convinced them that Hindenburg was incompetent and senile. Hindenburg stepped down on January 30 and Hitler became Chancellor. That night, with the watchword of "Grandmother is dead," Hitler's brownshirted hordes took over the nation. The Reichstag was dissolved February 1 and the building mysteriously burned February 27. All essential power of the German government passed into Hitler's hands during the next few months. Political parties were suppressed, all organized factions in the country were intimidated, the nation was torn with racial hatreds, and Hitler coined a euphemism for "dictator"—Fuehrer (Leader)—which he applied to himself.

The great significance which lies, first, in the successful overthrow by Mr. Truman of the one great military leader of this nation who has dared to criticize the views of the President and his Pentagon brain trust, and second, in the battle-to-the-death now in process between the President and Congress, do not need elaboration here.

The emotions upon which Hitler built his dictatorship may be summarized as three: first, carefully cultivated envious between social and racial groups in Germany; second, greed based on his promise to masses of citizens that they would receive vast benefits from his government without having to earn them; and third, fear of conquest from the outside—by the Communists, by Poland, by Czechoslovakia, etc., etc. Here again the parallel is much too conspicuous to need elaboration.

Even in phaseology the string of identities run through the careers of these two men. For example, both of them, despite their steady drift towards war, forever proclaimed their love of peace. Said Hitler in his major war-time speech on May 4, 1941: "God knows I wanted peace!" Said Mr. Truman on April 11, 1951: "We are trying to prevent a world war—not to start one."

Whether the American people understand the danger confronting their nation has very little to do with the nature of that peril.

This country, already on the verge of bankruptcy and of desolating war, is also on the threshold of dictatorship. What can the people do about it?

At the moment, very little except to size up their situation and prepare to act when the time comes, and meanwhile help Congress to hold the line.

Talk of impeachment of the President is inevitable in this crisis, but there is not a chance in a million that this could be carried through to removal. An attempt might provide precisely the pretext needed for the setting up of an emergency military government that would plunge us forever into the police state status.

The orderly processes of our Constitution provide the only feasible remedy, and the application of that remedy is up to the American people. It is the redress of the ballot. The remedy is to vote Mr. Truman and his party out of power in November of next year.

unless something is put in this vacuum, I fear the consequences."

Some other points in the Rev. Mr. Galang's address were:

"If America has anything to give to the Orient, she must show it in the Philippine Islands, the show-room of the Orient, the brightest and most helpful spot in Asia today."

"The Philippines are composed of 7083 islands, large and small. The land area of these islands is bigger than the New England States. The total population of these islands is 19 million people. The islands could support 90 millions. The people of the Philippines are of the brown race, not the yellow race."

"The great day to the Philippine Islands is July 4th, 1946, the day the United States granted independence to the islands."

"Many problems face us. I will mention three: First, problems of poverty, caused by the destruction caused by the war; and the climate is so mild that there is not much need to work to exist and you wear very light clothing all the time and eat light food, hence laziness develops. Second, peace and order. World War II ended officially but it has never ended in the Philippines. It is still going on in the form of civil war. There are two causes for this: first, the very reactionary attitude and practices of the people in power in the Philippines; and second, the presence of the Communist party in the Philippines. The Philippines are on the Communist timetable for 1952. Third, construction. Build again what has been destroyed. Buildings, transportation, new projects, tap national reserves, educate young people and create modern cities. The most important construction of all, rebuild the spiritual life of the people. The protestant church is very important. It is growing by leaps and bounds. What we need desperately is more leaders, teachers, ministers."

"The decisive battle of Communism will be fought in the Philippines. If they are lost, all Asia is lost."

The complete program follows: Dinner, prepared by the choir of Bristol Methodist Church and served by the Young Adults of Bensalem Church; "Sing-Along" devotionals, L. Thomas Moore, Jr., pastor of Bensalem Methodist Church; business meeting conducted by Mrs.

Morris Carter; address, followed by fun and fellowship; and a friendship circle.

The final meeting of the 1950-51 season will be held in Bristol Methodist Church on June 9th, when the officers for the 1951-52 season will be elected.

train, tulle yoke, beaded bodice, and long lace sleeves, was worn by the bride. The gown also featured rows of lace on the full skirt. Her beaded tiara held a veil of net and lace. She carried a white prayer book on which rested a lavender orchid, exchanging this at the altar for a bouquet composed of two lavender orchids and white carnations for the recession.

Her attendants were four in number, namely: Miss Constance Stallone, of Scranton, and Miss Blanche Lanza, of Dorrance street, a sister of the bride, as bridesmaids; Mrs. Paul Paci, Bristol Terrace 11, matron of honor; and Miss May La-Malfa, Philadelphia, niece of the bridegroom, as junior bridesmaid. The bridesmaids and matron of honor wore gowns of white broad-satin, tunics being of tulle. With the strapless gowns, tulle stoles were worn, as were also detachable sleeves. The trio wore red-beaded crowns and white slippers of satin; and carried hand bouquets of red carnations. The junior bridesmaid was attired in white tulle over satin, wore a crown of red roses, white satin slippers; and carried red roses arranged in a basket.

Men of the bridal party wore white jackets and black trousers. They were: Best man, Mr. Joseph Lanza, Dorrance street, brother of the bride; ushers, Mr. Anthony Piraino, Phila., brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Paul Paci, Bristol Terrace 11; junior usher, Lawrence Warren, 911 Mansion street, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Lanza, the bride's mother, wore to the church ceremony a beaded dress of royal blue tone, black hat, white gloves, and a lavender orchid.

Three social events followed the ceremony—breakfast at the Lanza home for the bridal party; dinner at a Philadelphia restaurant; and an evening reception in Mutual Aid hall. The newlyweds then left for a two weeks trip by motor to Florida. Travelling costume for the bride consisted of a navy blue suit and hat, beaded bag, silver tone muskrat cape, and she wore a lavender orchid. The two will live in an apartment at 904 Pond street. To her adult attendants, the former Miss Lanza presented gold necklaces and earrings; and to the junior bridesmaid, she gave a miraculous medal. Mr. Piraino gave his attendants tie pins and cuff links.

Golen and Indelicato Nuptials Are Performed

With the bride's attendants costumed in blue and pink, the Golen-Indelicato wedding ceremony was an attractive affair on Saturday. St. Ann's R. C. Church was the scene of the double-ring ceremony, performed at one p. m.

Mr. Peter Indelicato, 921 Mansion street, escorted his daughter, Miss Angela Indelicato, to the altar where she took the vows which made her the wife of Mr. Theodore Golen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Golen, 332 Harrison street. The bride approached the altar as a wedding march was played by Miss Helen Clott, Wilson avenue. Miss Clott also accompanied the vocalists, Mrs. Nicholas Indelicato, Philadelphia, who sang "The Rosary" and "Mother at Your Feet is Kneeling."

The bridal gown was a creation of white lace over satin. From the front of the beaded Peter Pan collar there extended tiny buttons to the waistline. The full skirt swept to a long train, and the sleeves tapered over her hands. The lace head-piece held a veil of illusion, fingertip in length. The bride wore white satin slippers, and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and purple-lipped white orchids.

Miss Antoinette Napoli, Jefferson avenue, a cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor; and the Misses Elizabeth DeGregorio, Mansion street, and Anne Martini, Beaver street, as bridesmaids. The trio was costumed in floor-length gowns of lily green net over taffeta of the same tone. With the strapless gowns, net stoles were worn. The brides were form-fitting, each having pleated net ruffles around the top, and horizontal, pleated ruffles of net across the front. The net was arranged in soft folds around each skirt and on the skirt fronts were scattered pink rose-buds. Pink buds also appeared in a vertical row at the back of the waistline. Each young woman wore a halo of pink rosebuds, silver slippers and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds. Each wore short mitts featuring wide ruffles.

The flower girl, Diane Indelicato, to Elm street, cousin and god-child of the bride, was attired in pink taffeta, with detachable sleeves. The dress had a round neckline, full skirt with three ruffled, lace pick-ups. Her halo was of varicolored flowers and she carried a basket of mixed blossoms. She wore white slippers.

Men in the bridal party were: Mr. George Salapka, Wilson avenue, best man; Mr. Nicholas Indelicato, Mansion street, brother of the bride, and Mr. Theodore Kryen, Hayes street, ushers.

Mrs. Indelicato, mother of the bride, wore a gown of orchid tone with lace bodice and crepe skirt; and navy blue accessories. Mrs. Golen, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in aqua, with black accessories. Both wore lavender orchids.

Dinner was served to 30 guests at the Parkway Inn; and in the evening 300 were invited to a reception in Mutual Aid hall.

Leaving for a motor trip of two weeks to Florida, the bride traveled in a suit dress. The dress was navy blue with yellow trim, the jacket being yellow with trim of navy blue. Her hat was also in these color tones; and she wore a Kolinsky neck-piece, and the orchids from her bridal bouquet. The two will reside at 921 Mansion street.

Mr. and Mrs. Golen are employed at Paterson Parchment Paper Co. The bride is a Bristol High School graduate. To her attendants she gave initialed maracas; pins; and to the flower girl, a mother-of-pearl locket. Mr. Golen gave his attendants initialed maracas tie-pins.

Dinner was served to 30 guests at the Parkway Inn; and in the evening 300 were invited to a reception in Mutual Aid hall.

Leaving for a motor trip of two weeks to Florida, the bride traveled in a suit dress. The dress was navy blue with yellow trim, the jacket being yellow with trim of navy blue. Her hat was also in these color tones; and she wore a Kolinsky neck-piece, and the orchids from her bridal bouquet. The two will reside at 921 Mansion street.

Mr. and Mrs. Golen are employed at Paterson Parchment Paper Co. The bride is a Bristol High School graduate. To her attendants she gave initialed maracas; pins; and to the flower girl, a mother-of-pearl locket. Mr. Golen gave his attendants initialed maracas tie-pins.

Miss Antoinette Napoli, Jefferson avenue, a cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor; and the Misses Elizabeth DeGregorio, Mansion street, and Anne Martini, Beaver street, as bridesmaids. The trio was costumed in floor-length gowns of lily green net over taffeta of the same tone. With the strapless gowns, net stoles were worn. The brides were form-fitting, each having pleated net ruffles around the top, and horizontal, pleated ruffles of net across the front. The net was arranged in soft folds around each skirt and on the skirt fronts were scattered pink rose-buds. Pink buds also appeared in a vertical row at the back of the waistline. Each young woman wore a halo of pink rosebuds, silver slippers and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds. Each wore short mitts featuring wide ruffles.

The flower girl, Diane Indelicato, to Elm street, cousin and god-child of the bride, was attired in pink taffeta, with detachable sleeves. The dress had a round neckline, full skirt with three ruffled, lace pick-ups. Her halo was of varicolored flowers and she carried a basket of mixed blossoms. She wore white slippers.

Men in the bridal party were: Mr. George Salapka, Wilson avenue, best man; Mr. Nicholas Indelicato, Mansion street, brother of the bride, and Mr. Theodore Kryen, Hayes street, ushers.

Mrs. Indelicato, mother of the bride, wore a gown of orchid tone with lace bodice and crepe skirt; and navy blue accessories. Mrs. Golen, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in aqua, with black accessories. Both wore lavender orchids.

JUNIORS DOMINATE THE WARRIORS NINE

Juniors will dominate the Bristol high baseball team this season. The Warriors open their season this afternoon, meeting Neshaminy High at Langhorne. Tomorrow, Bristol plays Bensalem Township on Memorial Park field.

Coach Jerry Bloom was forced to rebuild his team this year as the only left-overs from last season's squad are Vito Bascio, a second baseman, and "Lou" Loeffler, who captains at short.

Bloom has quite an array of talent in his pitching corps of Bob Ashby, Bill Struble, Allen Holston, and Norman Slaymaker. Holston is a pitcher.

Four catchers are on the squad: Myrl Binkley, Jimmy Coles, Joe DeFazio and William Moss.

Sharing the first base job will be Raul Stevens and Jimmy Wright, with Jim Ehrhart, tied helping Bascio at second, Ecole Petrizzi and Jerry Orrino will divide the hot corner, with Loeffler being the only shortstop candidate.

For outfield, Coach Bloom has the choice of Bob Jones, Ralston Hedrick, Frank Lucenti, Ed Banker, Albert Reiff, Wayne Richman, Bob Cochran, Bert DiGiralomo, Ronald Elbersson, and Joe Embuscuso.

Bob Jones and Lucenti seem to be the sluggers among the candidates, with Loeffler and Petrizzi being the most consistent hitters.

Coach Bloom lost such players as Jim Morrill, Frank Rich, Joe Pindar, and Frank Barbetta as the result of graduation last June.

Asks Why Americans "Hedge" On Loyalty

with industries, highways, ports and railroads. In such a strong-hold gather the fifth column subversives of the totalitarian thinkers.

Knowledge is power. The people of America and the people of Pennsylvania must have knowledge. The very life blood of the nations and the people who want to destroy our form of government is fed by deceit, underhanded tactics and lies.

The loyalty oath, if it becomes law, grants to the enforcement of officers of Pennsylvania the heavy weapon of conviction for perjury for a false oath or affirmation. Such convictions in recent years have placed well-known subversives in places where they can do no harm.

A part of this same oath is the one which is taken by all public officials of Pennsylvania. In part, it is taken by all servicemen. It is the same oath taken by the civil defense worker in this state and he works without pay.

The persons against the loyalty oath bill are in the minority but they are vociferous.

The overwhelming majority of the teachers and educators who belong to the Pennsylvania State Education Association stand ready and willing to take the oath. They are the backbone of this free and independent commonwealth.

There is the voice that should be heard. But the clamor comes from the minority which is trained by the voice of a teachers' union with its birth place in New York city. This is a cleverly organized outfit whose finances come from undisclosed sources.

Forty-three per cent of all money in the commonwealth's budget is funneled into the educational field. This is as the people of Pennsylvania desire it. But it also makes for a fertile field upon which can spring the seeds of discontent.

There is another point worth mentioning. In 1940, when we were considerably more friendly with Russia, Governor James directed that everybody on Capitol Hill take a loyalty oath. There was no opposition.

The growth of opposition today leads one to believe there has been an influx of communists in this state in the last 10 years.

If every American would constantly state that "I am an American," there would be no cause for malcontents, parlor pinks and out-and-out Reds.

Why in the year of our Lord, 1951, should any American hedge on a question of stating that he is an American?

Why should any person refuse to take an oath, or in his conscience, affirm that he is an American and that he is against the overthrow of his government by force and violence?

This is not a political question, nor is it a political issue. This is the very essence of our way of life.

I am an American. I swear or affirm it. I am not and will not be a part of any movement or group which advocates the destruction of my America. I swear or affirm it.

Is there something wrong with that?

talk of Field Day of the Legislative committee of the state W. C. T. U. held in Harrisburg, April 11th, was another outstanding feature of the morning program. Mrs. Force reported that among the 1500 people who attended the dinner, there were six tables of senators and representatives. The trend of the thought in the talks given by the governor and senators was that Pennsylvania needs more instruction in religion and morality. Her concluding thought was "We are God's aerial and our lives are the television screens."

The American people should give more of themselves to help others.

Mrs. Elmira Fields of the Bensalem Union gave the greetings, and Mrs. Clayton Zetty, of Warminster, the response. Salute to the flag was led by Miss Gladys Harper, Yardley.

Mrs. Earl Schlachter, Penndel, favored with vocal selections during the morning session.

The Misses Adams, Scottsville, presented a vocal duet in the afternoon. Mrs. LeRoy Nixon, county director of alcoholic education, conducted an impressive memorial service for Miss Emily L. Mrs. Walter Thompson, Yardley, conducted the devotional period for the morning. The devotional period of the afternoon was in charge of the Rev. Harry Buchanan, Scottsville. The Rev.
